Tory top choice in voter poll

MAYORAL RACE Outspoken Etobicoke Coun. Rob Ford has pulled neck-and-neck with George Smitherman in the Toronto mayoral race — but John Tory would blow both out of the water if he were to jump in, a new poll says.

When 405 Torontonians, polled by Forum Research Inc. between Friday and yesterday, were given a choice of the six main candidates plus Tory, who shocked many in January when he said he would sit out the election and has resisted a recent campaign to get him in, he polled way ahead of everyone.

Opening domination

Germany's Lukas Podolski celebrates after scoring his team's first goal against Australia yesterday during a World Cup Group D match in Durban, South Africa. Germany blanked Australia 4-0 in its first game of the 2010 tournament and has not lost an opening match in the World Cup since a 2-1 setback to Algeria in 1982. More coverage, pages 18, 24, 25.

Note to MPs: Thanks for showing up

POLITICS One of the most unproductive sittings in Canadian legislative history is sputtering to an end.

MPs are preparing to head home for the summer, having spent six months locked in furious debate over the vital role Parliament should play in a healthy democracy. But amid all the wrangling and rancor, there's little sign Parliament has actually done much work.

So far this year, only two routine money bills have received royal assent.

Parliamentary expert Ned Franks says he can't recall another legislative sitting that has accomplished so little.

"There might have been (but) I have no record of it," says the political scientist. According to Franks' records, Parliament last year approved 34 bills — 24 before the summer hiatus.

That's on par with the average 35 bills per year passed by the mother of all parliaments in Britain.

As Franks observes, "This Parliament isn't functioning like a normal Parliament."

Break

• The Commons is expected to break as early as Thursday, but the Senate may sit up to an additional three weeks to deal with legislation the government deems most urgent.

Uzbek exodus

More than 75,000 flee ethnic violence in Kyrgyzstan

Mobs of rioters slaughtered Uzbeks and burned their homes and businesses in Kyrgyzstan's worst ethnic violence in decades, sending more than 75,000 members of the ethnic minority fleeing the country in attacks that appeared aimed at undermining the Central Asian nation's new interim government.

More than 100 people were killed in southern Kyrgyzstan and more than 1,200 wounded in days of attacks, according to government estimates yesterday. The true toll may be much higher.

The International Committee of the Red Cross said its delegates witnessed about 100 bodies being buried in just one cemetery, and noted the official toll is unlikely to include bodies still lying in the streets.

Fires set by rioters raged across Osh, the second-largest city in Kyrgyzstan, as triumphant crowds of ethnic-majority Kyrgyz men took control. Police or military troops were nowhere to be seen in the city of 250,000.

Parking inequities get blood boiling

Release of city's secret get-out-of-your-ticket rules stirs up hornet's nest

Phyllis Broder, 76, is furious that her 20-second sprint to a library drop-off box got her a $250 ticket while a courier company would beat the rap.

Velma Varey is spitting mad that a select group of Scarborough residents can park for free on their streets overnight while others across the city have to pay for permits.

John Weingust is outraged people can plead guilty to a ticket by mail or online but, to give notice they'll fight, are forced to take time off to appear in person.

And wait until motorists hear about the 12-year-old "pilot project" that gives some of Toronto's richest residents, at no extra cost, special transferable on-street parking permits that they can lend to house guests and tradespeople.

Rather than appease fed-up drivers, the release last week of Toronto's secret handbook of excuses to beat parking tickets, and a more user-friendly version, has poked a hornet's nest of distrust about inequities in the system that issued 2.8 million tickets last year.

Broder is one of more than two dozen people to call or email the Toronto Star with complaints about rules and enforcement after councillors Howard Moscoe and Denzil Minnan-Wong successfully fought city bureaucrats to get the guidelines released.

The handbook tells city staff they can cut some slack, on certain tickets in certain circumstances, to senior citizens, out-of-towners, delivery and fast-food companies, worshippers with a letter from their "Minister/Pastor/Holy Man," the infirm, city councillors on official business, and others.

Grits selling the HST

MPPs pay for mailbox flyers extolling tax

Liberal MPPs are taking the selling of the controversial HST into their own hands — and mailboxes.

Thwarted by their government's own restrictive law banning public funding of partisan political advertising, Grit MPPs will be paying for and distributing pamphlets extolling the virtues of the 13 per cent harmonized sales tax.

The two-page flyer, entitled A Strong Plan For Ontario, will be sent to people living in Liberal ridings starting this week.

In contrast to the government's anodyne campaign to announce the HST, which takes effect July 1, the Liberal brochure is written in plain and pointed language.

"The transition to the HST will eliminate hidden costs for business, allowing companies to invest in growth and creating new jobs," it declares.

The flyer also touts the cheques sent out last Thursday. "These transition cheques will help during the first year of the HST," the pamphlet says, alluding to the fact harmonization will increase levies on gasoline, home heating fuels, hydro, tobacco, taxi fares, haircuts and about one in six products and services. "The other tax cuts — including income tax cuts — are permanent, yours to keep."

Liberal ads call costs PM's 'ego trip'

POLITICS The Liberal party has launched a national radio ad campaign in an effort to capitalize on public anger over the cost of the G8 and G20 summits later this month.

The party is hoping the 30-second radio spots — which refer to the summits as a "billion-dollar boondoggle" and an "ego trip" for Prime Minister

G20 Summit

Stephen Harper — will help fill Liberal coffers.

A pitch to Liberal party faithful includes a link to the radio spot and a pitch for donations of $10, $25 or $100.

Finance Minister Jim Flaherty responded to the ads by saying most of the spending on the G20 was on security.

"It's our obligation if we're going to host an international meeting with the leaders of the world attending — representing 80 per cent of the GDP of the world — that we have full and adequate security in our country, and that's expensive," he said.

Pageant contestant fired over leaked ads

A beauty pageant that requires contestants to show some skin in the bathing suit portion has thrown out a competitor for showing too much of it.

Sophie Froment was dismissed from the Miss Universe Canada pageant on Saturday after some steamy television commercials she did for Ashley Madison — a dating website for men and women seeking an affair — were leaked to organizers.

The company's website advertises a 100 per cent "affair guarantee."

Last December, its "Life is short. Have an affair" advertising campaign was rejected by the TTC's advertising review committee because it didn't meet community standards.

Although Froment, a 21-year-old law student, is currently featured in a U.S. television commercial for the company wearing lingerie, the ads in question were never broadcast. But someone — Froment says she doesn't know who — posted them online.

In one commercial, Froment is topless and lying on her stomach on a bed with a man. In another, she's kissing him.

A statement on the Beauties of Canada website, which produces the Miss Universe Canada, says Froment was dismissed because she "made some career choices that are not compatible with the image of women that our organization tries to promote; and which would disqualify her from representing Canada at the 2010 Miss Universe Pageant."

In 2001, her last full year of work at Hydro One, Eleanor Clitheroe took home more than $2.2 million, including $174,000 for a car and $172,000 for vacation.

than the average Hydro One pensioner gets annually. Her pension is capped at $25,637.08 a month — or $307,644.96 a year — due to legislation passed by the government limiting executive salaries at the utility, but Clitheroe is arguing she should receive $464,133.84 per year.

The lawsuit was originally dismissed, but in appealing it Clitheroe notes she worked 16-hour days and earned bonuses for her performance and is the only income earner for a family of four.

The Court of Appeal for Ontario is set to hear arguments tomorrow.

Closure on the Air India attack?

Inquiry to release findings later this week

A quarter-century after the worst terrorist attack in Canadian history, a federal inquiry is set to deliver a belated verdict on what went wrong — and what can be done to ensure that another such tragedy never takes place.

The report on the 1985 Air India bombing, expected to be presented to Prime Minister Stephen Harper and made public Thursday, is the product of nearly four years of work by former Supreme Court justice John Major and a staff of lawyers and researchers.

The team sifted through tens of thousands of pages of classified documents and took testimony from more than 200 witnesses during the painstaking investigation.

The five volumes will to-

"This event is so perplexing, so multi-faceted, there are so many layers, it has been so long."

Inside source familiar with report tal nearly 4,000 pages of historical narrative, factual findings by Major on long-disputed points and recommendations for policy reforms to improve police work, intelligence operations, airline security and the conduct of anti-terrorist trials by prosecutors and judges.

And still it may not be the final word.

"This event is so perplexing, so multi-faceted, there are so many layers, it has been so long," says a source familiar with the report.

"I don't think, with this kind of event, the door ever really closes — it's just like 9/11. But at least the historical record of the involvement by government agencies has been thoroughly canvassed, and for the first time (they are) being brought to account."

Air India Flight 182, bound to New Delhi from Toronto and Montreal, was brought down over the Irish Sea June 23, 1985, by a terrorist bomb stowed in the luggage compartment, killing all 329 people on board.

Will the insurgency become irrelevant?

AFGHANISTAN Canada's new top soldier in Afghanistan says he believes the insurgency in Afghanistan will dissolve into irrelevance if this year's operation against the Taliban is successful.

In his first interviews in his new role, Brig.-Gen. Jon Vance said yesterday that NATO's counterinsurgency operations won't break the insurgency but rather render it meaningless, if the Afghanistan government is able to deliver public services and security to its people.

Vance said a recent surge of American troops in Kandahar city have allowed Canadian soldiers to focus their efforts on maintaining stability in the more rural districts such as Panjwaii.

Vance was deployed when his predecessor, Brig.-Gen. Daniel Menard, was recalled from the base two weeks ago over an alleged affair with a female subordinate.

Vance said he was pleased to be given the opportunity to serve in Afghanistan again, though he is not happy about the circumstances that led to his deployment.

Swiss bus crash kills Ont. couple

ACCIDENT Swiss officials say the two Canadians killed in a weekend bus crash were a couple from Ontario.

A 71-year-old man and his 67-year-old wife died in the accident in southern Switzerland, but officials declined to provide their names.

Swiss authorities also said 13 Canadians are still being treated in various hospitals in the region.

They expect six of the patients will be well enough to be released by today.

In Ottawa, the Department of Foreign Affairs said Canadian consular officials have been sent to help.

A group of 48 Canadian tourists were on a bus that went off the side of a road and ended up on its side Saturday near the capital, Bern.

News in brief

TOXICITY Far more sewage has been spilled in Canadian urban centres over the last six years than any other harmful contaminant, newly released figures show. An analysis by The Canadian Press reveals hundreds of millions of litres of sewage, as well as many other dangerous liquids, have been dumped right under Canadians' noses.

B.C. A landslide in southeastern British Columbia wiped out at least 10 homes and officials were still trying to determine if all area residents made it out in time. Allan Patton, regional director with the District of Okanagan-Similkameen, said officials haven't ruled out fatalities in the slide near Oliver, B.C.

Flaherty seeks accord on pension reform

Finance ministers meeting at P.E.I. resort

The federal finance minister says he hopes to come away from a meeting with his provincial counterparts with an agreement on how pension reform in Canada should proceed.

Jim Flaherty and the provincial and territorial finance ministers are currently huddled at a resort on Prince Edward Island.

The meeting comes amid fears that a growing number of people — especially the middle class — aren't squirrelling enough cash away for their retirement years and will be faced with a reduction in their standard of living.

Flaherty is proposing a number of initiatives including what he calls a modest and gradual increase in Canada Pension Plan payroll premiums.

The country's main small-business lobby group, the Canadian Federation of Independent Business, is dead set against anything that would increase CPP premiums. But Canadian Labour Congress president Ken Georgetti wants the premiums doubled.

Flaherty said he doubted the provinces would agree to doubling the CPP, and said such a jump could hurt the economy and place a heavy burden on businesses and people who are self-employed. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Feds miss targets on real-estate holdings: Report

PORTFOLIO Managers of the federal government's massive real-estate portfolio have again fallen short of their performance targets, says an internal report.

Vacancy rates remained stubbornly high, maintenance costs rose significantly and the government's return on investment was anemic — raising questions about the business savvy of federal bureaucrats.

The findings are contained in Public Works' so-called Asset Report Card for 2008-2009, a draft copy of which was obtained by The Canadian Press under the Access to Information Act.

The document is an annual accounting of how efficiently the government manages the 353 buildings it owns across the country, including 233 Crown-owned office buildings. Most of the offices are in the Ottawa area. THE CANADIAN PRESS

No good governance prize for Africa

For the second year in a row, organizers of a $5-million US annual prize for good governance in Africa will not give out the award. The winner of the Ibrahim Prize for African Leadership was to be announced yesterday. But the Mo Ibrahim Foundation said "there had been no new candidates or new developments" since last year, when the panel declined to award the prize.

Research report rips Pakistan

Support for Taliban still reaches the highest levels of government, it claims

Pakistan's main spy agency continues to arm and train the Taliban and is even represented on the group's leadership council despite U.S. pressure to sever ties and billions in aid to combat the militants, said a research report released yesterday.

The findings could heighten tension between the two countries and raise further questions about U.S. success in Afghanistan since Pakistani co-operation is seen as key to defeating

Pakistani general dismisses report

- Maj. Gen. Athar Abbas, spokesman for the Pakistani army, which controls ISI, rejected the report, calling it "rubbish."
- "In the past, these kinds of baseless and unsubstantiated allegations have surfaced and we have rejected them," said Abbas. He pointed out ISI has suffered many casualties fighting militants in the country.

the Taliban, which seized power in Kabul in the 1990s with Islamabad's support.

U.S. officials have suggested in the past that current or former members of Pakistan's powerful Inter-

Services Intelligence agency, or ISI, have maintained links to the Taliban despite the government's decision to denounce the group in 2001 under U.S. pressure.

But the report issued yesterday by the London School of Economics offered one of the strongest cases that assistance to the group is official ISI policy, and even extends to the highest levels of the Pakistani government.

"Pakistan's apparent involvement in a double-game of this scale could have major geopolitical implications and could even provoke U.S. countermeasures," said the report.

Karzai urges support for NATO campaign

KANDAHAR Afghan President Hamid Karzai called yesterday on community leaders to support a NATO campaign to bolster security in Kandahar, urging people to work with his government to "bring dignity back." NATO has already begun an operation to ramp up security, and the campaign is expected to accelerate the coming months. Many of the estimated half-million Kandahar residents are skeptical of the operation, fearing it will lead to more bloodshed. Karzai told the assembled group the operation will be led by Afghan forces and will not resemble a heavy military offensive with tanks and airstrikes.

"We need your co-operation with this operation," he said. "I don't accept any excuse for not co-operating. We need bravery of the people."

Separatists score big in Belgian vote

ELECTION A separatist party that advocates independence for the Dutch-speaking region of Belgium, leaving the country's Francophones to fend for themselves, scored an unprecedented win in yesterday's general election. Final results gave the Dutch-speaking New Flemish Alliance — a fringe factor until now — 27 of the 150 legislative seats, up 19 from the 2007 vote. Bart De Wever, leader of the New Flemish Alliance, urged "Francophones to make (a country) that works."

Today, King Albert is expected to begin talks with key politicians on what sort of government can be formed.

IRAQ Insurgents wearing military uniforms stormed Iraq's central bank in Baghdad yesterday during an apparent robbery attempt, battling security forces in a three-hour standoff after bombs exploded nearby in a co-ordinated day-

New Innovation for Back Pain Sufferers

Imagine living without back pain.
Imagine doing everything you've avoided.
Imagine being "you" again.

Renowned back specialist Dr. Michael Ho has engineered a revolutionary new product to help men & women relieve a lifetime of back pain in as little as 20 minutes. Work, walk, and be active again with Dr.Ho's Decompression Belt

Father's Day Sale
50% OFF

DR-HO'S Decompression Belt

DR-HO'S Belt helps relieve:

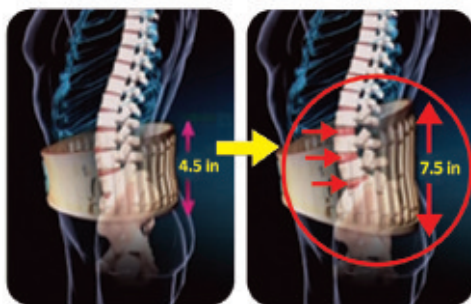

- Chronic & acute back pain
- Degenerative, herniated or bulging discs
- Leg pain related to degenerative disc
- Trouble sleeping due to back pain
- Aching back from sitting, driving, or lifting
- Sore back from child and elderly care
- Back pain from golf, hockey or racquet sports

DR-HO'S Belt is clinically observed to help:

- ✓ Decompress lower back joints & spinal discs
- ✓ Lift & keep upper body weight off lower back
- ✓ Support lower back & increase core strength
- ✓ Stabilize & align spine and improve posture
- ✓ Stretch & relieve tight lower back muscles
- ✓ Relieve lower back pain & stiffness

How DR-HO'S Belt works:

1. Wrap DR-HO'S Decompression belt firmly around your waist.
2. Clip air pump nozzle onto the belt.
3. Inflate the belt by pumping the air pump. The belt will expand vertically, gently stretching and tractioning the lower back.
4. Remove the air pump nozzle from the belt and enjoy. Feel the relief in as little as 20 minutes!

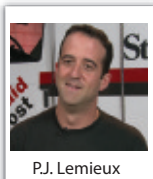

Belt inflates with air, expands vertically, gently stretching and tractioning lower back

Dr. Michael Ho
Back Specialist

Alice Love

"This belt is out of this world! Feels like all the weight is taken off of you and you just feel light. Pain pills only mask the pain. Now that we have the belt I can be pain free. I have a grandson, who loves to be picked up. But you don't realize how much pressure that puts on your back. With my belt, I don't have to worry about picking him up!"

P.J. Lemieux

The belt is very comfortable and it helps to take the stress off my lower back. I feel that I now have better posture and I see how that is very beneficial. I can see this being used by people with chronic back pain and its pharmaceutical free and so easy to do. You just strap on the belt, inflate and you can feel it work right away because it takes the stress off the lower back. You've got nothing to lose if you suffer from back pain. Definitely this is worth trying!

Having studied and worked in countries including Canada, United States, Sri Lanka and China, Dr. Ho has devoted his life to Health and Wellness.

Dr. Ho has been recognized for his ability to identify and correct the cause of the pain providing longterm relief for his patients.

Dr. Michel Rice

"Every patient with back pain should be wearing this belt because it gives you core strength and support in your spine, and a traction effect for great pain relief. The great thing is that patients with chronic back pain can wear this belt and get their life back. They can feel more confident, be more active, and do things that they love doing."

Sports Specialist
Dr. Carson

"This device helps with the lower back, I understand it, I enjoyed it and I endorse it. This belt I think is quite an advantage to other lumbar belts. I see this as a device that will assist in reducing the muscle spasm, as one of the many things that we can do to help our back pain patients. I certainly look forward to prescribing this belt because I realized the benefits myself."

BP will pay: White House

U.S. President Barack Obama will demand that BP create a special account with "substantial" reserves to pay Gulf oil claims and will take other steps aimed at aiding the region, his top political adviser said yesterday.

Obama, set to visit the Gulf Coast today and tomorrow, also plans an Oval Office address tomorrow night after his return to Washington. He meets at the White House with BP executives, including the oil company's chairman, Wednesday.

"This is an ongoing crisis, much like an epidemic," David Axelrod told NBC television's Meet The Press.

BP's board was to meet today to discuss deferring its second-quarter dividend and putting the money into escrow until the company's liabilities from the spill are known. "Our mission is to hold them accountable in every appropriate way," Axelrod said. The White House wants an independent third party to administer the escrow account and compensate those with "legitimate" claims for damages, he said. The amount of money set aside will be part of the White House discussions, but Axelrod said it should be "substantial."

"We're not interested in undermining the integrity of their company, but this disaster is having an impact on their company," he said. "We believe that BP has the resources to meet the claims, and we're going to make sure that they do. They're a highly profitable company. They've got lots of assets. They have the prospect of continuing, but they have to meet their obligations here."

Axelrod brushed aside criticism that Obama has not yet met or spoken to BP CEO Tony Hayward, saying Hayward knows what the administration's demands have been since the crisis began.

The president will make clear in his meeting Wednesday that BP meets its responsibility for caring for people affected by the spill, Axelrod said.

Canadian on flotilla incident probe

INVESTIGATION Israel has asked Canada's former top military lawyer to help investigate its attack on a Gaza-bound aid flotilla.

A statement from the Israel government says one of two foreign observers for a proposed inquiry would be retired Brig.-Gen. Ken Watkin, Canada's former judge advocate general. Watkin served as a Canadian Forces legal officer for more than 25 years and has been involved in various inquiries arising from the 1994 genocide in Rwanda.

Foreign affairs minister Lawrence Cannon welcomed Israel's decision to set up the independent commission, saying Watkin's career makes him well-suited to participate. The proposal for the commission goes before Israel's cabinet for approval today. It would be chaired by retired Israeli Supreme Court justice Yaakov Turkel. A second foreign observer proposed for the probe is Irish Nobel Peace Prize laureate Lord William David Trimble.

Young sailor jokes after rescue

SAFE Rescued teenage solo sailor Abby Sunderland summed up the end of her circumnavigation quest in a sentence.

"The long and the short of it is, well, one long wave, and one short mast (short meaning two inch stub)," the 16-year-old California girl wrote on her blog just hours after she was rescued Saturday from her crippled sailboat in the turbulent southern Indian Ocean.

A French fishing boat brought her on board more than 3,200 kilometres west of Australia after a wave broke the mast of her boat, Wild Eyes, satellite phone communication was lost and she set off emergency beacons.

She will spend more than a week travelling to Reunion Island, a French territory east of Madagascar.

Her parents said after a 20-minute phone conversation with their daughter that she was bumped and bruised after three days adrift but otherwise healthy.

"She sounded tired, a little bit small in her voice, but she was able to make jokes and she was looking forward to getting some sleep," her mother, Marianne Sunderland, told reporters outside the family home northwest of Los Angeles.

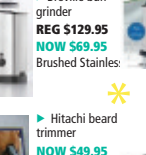

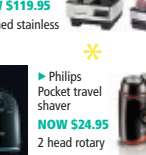

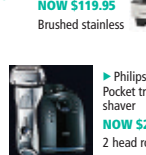

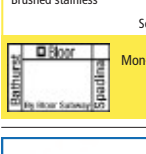

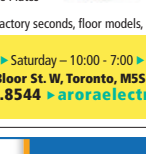

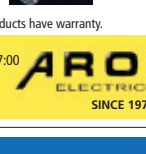

Laurence Sunderland said his daughter simply "caught a bad wave."

Sex-tape scandal first for Indonesia

Indonesians grappled with their first-ever celebrity sex-tape scandal, casting aside social taboos as they swarmed around office computers and mobile phones to watch clips allegedly showing a much-loved pop star with two girlfriends.

The story topped newscasts for a week and dominated chatter on social-networking sites such as Facebook and Twitter. But just as controversial was the reaction of officials in the newly democratic nation.

Police initially threatened to charge the "stars" under a strict anti-pornography law.

Several high schools were raided for mobile phones so the offending clips could be removed. And some ministers said the incident pointed, once again, to moral decay and the need for stricter controls of the Internet.

Indonesia, a secular nation with more Muslims than any other in the world, emerged from 32 years of dictatorship in 1998. It won praise for tackling the tough tasks of fighting corruption and terrorism and implementing widely lauded social and economic reforms.

The first six-minute video clip appears to show pop singer Nazril Irham, better known as Ariel, in bed with his girlfriend Luna Maya, a top model, actress and, up until the scandal, the face of Lux beauty soap.

The two deny it was them, saying the footage has been doctored, but were called in for questioning by police.

Then a second eight-minute video emerged, purportedly showing Ariel with a former girlfriend, also a well-liked model and television presenter, further fanning public appetite for more.

As the tapes were downloaded onto Facebook and YouTube (they have since been removed by the sites' administrator) and distributed from mobile phone to mobile phone, the country tottered on the verge of sexual hysteria.

But, in the wake of the sex-tape saga, Minister of Information and Technology Tifatul Sembiring renewed calls for content control, and teams immediately set out to deploy firewalls for more than 2,000 Internet cafes around the country.

News in brief

ARKANSAS State Police spokesman Bill Sadler says searchers are looking for no more than three missing people believed to have been in a campground devastated by flash flooding. Authorities had received reports of up to two dozen missing campers. But Sadler said yesterday that authorities don't believe most of those people were in the campground during the flash flooding. Eighteen people have been confirmed killed in flash floods that swept through the popular Albert Pike Recreation Area before dawn on Friday.

Naples: Urban shock for T.O. eyes

InTransit

Ed Drass

metronews.ca/intransit

In Naples, you make do. If your city happens to lie upon steep hills — and beside a dormant volcano — you just build around these minor obstacles.

Italy's third largest city, after Rome and Milan, is an urban shock for Toronto eyes. Traffic is chaotic and getting around by transit can be tough. Naples has many bus and train services, but the buses can be hot, slow and crowded and the various rail lines barely connect.

In fact, I spent hours understanding how the network fits together. It doesn't help that there are decades worth of conflicting maps and diagrams scattered throughout the network. It does help that every form of transport in the region is covered by one fare system.

Construction at the main train station in Naples adds to the difficulty for visitors.

Someone has forgotten to put up signs to the local rail and metro lines. (Toronto's Union Station can be tricky, but compared to Naples it's a cinch.) Finding your way downstairs, you may see system maps taped to walls. For some reason these comprehensive maps are sponsored by the service club Rotary International — but good luck getting one to take along.

While decoding the "Metronapoli" system, you make do. There are four funiculars (short, incline subways under the hills) although it's not obvious how they connect with the trains. I eventually found open-air escalators that link these incline railways to the wider network. Transferring between subway, urban and suburban rail lines requires sleuthing, plus some helpful Neapolitans.

The main cross-city suburban rail line is gradually being integrated into the Metro network except it does not link well with the main Metro route. Imagine transferring between Yonge and Bloor stations via moving walkways and a deep, graffiti-coated stairwell. (I did not try the elevator.)

A beautiful four-stop, orphaned Metro line runs far from the city centre, waiting to be connected to the rest of the network — but it could take a long time. Naples is old and much history lies beneath street level.

Naples does have streetcars along the seafloor but service has been suspended. If the lines reopen, perhaps the authorities will have a way of keeping the city's insane traffic from clogging the tracks.

Toronto-based transport writer Ed Drass covers transit issues every Monday; transit@eddrass.com.

Kicking back to watch games may slow productivity

Even down on the Toronto stock market floor, amid a flurry of multimillion-dollar trades, the TVs are tuned into the World Cup.

It's just one effect of the planet's biggest sports tournament, a month-long phenomenon that a U.K. study suggests could cost billions in lost productivity around the world.

Others challenge the notion. They argue the World Cup could actually benefit some economies — depending on which team wins and how much fans shell out for the celebration.

While there may be a debate about the economic bottom line, there is no disputing the soccer frenzy sweeping across workplaces as people around the world return to the office today.

In Honduras, the government is giving 200,000 public employees time off during the tournament to watch the national team play. Politicians have even urged private businesses to follow their lead.

In Canada, a senior strategist for TD predicted international productivity would dip during World Cup matches.

Millan Mulraine couldn't think of any empirical research done on the topic, but last Friday, with many TVs on the Toronto trading floor showing soccer, he expressed confidence about his hunch.

"In this environment, normally you would be watching business news," Mulraine said.

"But given that the World Cup is on now live, I think that's what everyone's tuned into ... even at work."

"I've taken a few glances at it while working, so I can testify to the fact that, yes, productivity will likely decline during events."

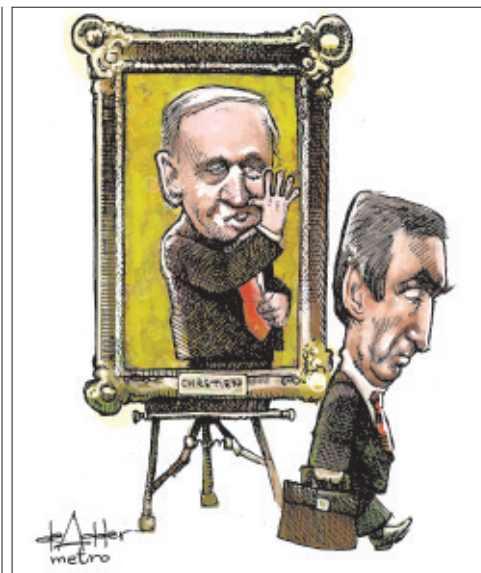

A director at Scotia Capital in Toronto told the Wall Street Journal that many traders took Friday off to watch the start of the tournament. The paper reported that during Friday's games the New York trading volume was at its lowest point in two months.

In the soccer-mad U.K., more than 50 per cent of 687 managers surveyed last month by the Chartered Management Institute worry their employees may be distracted by discussions about the World Cup.

The institute estimates that lost hours of productivity could cost more than $1.4 billion — to the British economy alone.

Consumer habits

Where we're wrong: "Seven out of 10 Canadians said they use a reusable drinking container all or most of the time," notes Nick Cowling, VP at Optimum Public Relations, which was involved with Summerhill in conducting the survey. "And yet, if you're in line at the Starbucks or Tim Hortons, no one's holding one."

How we can improve: Reusable cups! Also, the survey suggests most people will donate clothing or other things, but few will buy gently used goods.

Eco-intentions are great, but a new survey reveals a few of them are bad from the start

BEN KNIGHT
for Metro Canada

A sweeping new survey of Canadian environmental habits reveals most Canadians aren't as green as they think they are.

The second annual Green Gap Index highlights striking differences between what we say we do, and how we actually behave.

It also concludes that this perception gap is growing.

"Canadians have a great desire to be green, but they are struggling," says Nick Cowling, vice-president of Optimum Public Relations, which co-conducted the survey.

"They are looking for more guidance from the corporations, brands, government and employers."

• See survey results at www.summerhillgroup.ca/greengap/2010May31_Green_Gap_Index.pdf

Energy use

Where we're wrong: A smaller gap here. The survey says Canadians have greater awareness of energy efficiency, but only participate in actions that do not require any real change or effort in their existing behaviours.

How we can improve: Cowling says we're already doing it. "Almost three-quarters of Canadians said they are using less energy than they did last year," he notes. "I think that's because this is an area that has a big effect on their wallets. Energy efficiency has been the fastest transition — because people can save money."

Less energy can mean more money in your wallet.

Fuel efficiency

Where we're wrong:

The survey says 85 per cent of Canadian drivers believe they are driving fuel-efficient cars — ones that burn no more than 8.3 litres of gasoline per 100 kilometres.

The problem?

There simply aren't that many fuel-efficient vehicles on our roads, proving most are misinformed about their fuel use.

FILE PHOTO

How we can improve:

"About 50 per cent are opting for public transportation instead of driving, and it's a much younger demographic," Cowling says.

Typically, he says, "Canadians don't tend to look at things that are a bit more of a financial stretch, like buying carbon offsets when you do air travel."

"Twelve per cent, or less, consider it," he notes.

Debt fears spur Beijing's cleanup call

BANKING China's cabinet ordered local governments yesterday to better manage their investment agencies amid concern that their borrowings — estimated at hundreds of billions of dollars — could cause problems for Chinese banks.

The State Council also directed banks to control lending to these agencies by targeting loans at specific projects and monitoring how the credit is used.

Chinese media say local government investment agencies owe 6 trillion yuan ($880 billion US) to state banks. American researcher, Victor Shih, estimates total local government borrowing from 2004-09 at 12 trillion yuan ($1.6 trillion US).

Jazz Air, which operates more than 800 daily flights to more than 80 centres across Canada and the United States, is among the most profitable airlines in North America, its pilots union says.

Jazz pilots still in talks, no strike yet

AIRLINES Don't worry about those travel plans just yet.

Talks continue as pilots from Jazz Air try to hammer out a deal with the airline. Capt. Brian Shury, master executive council chairman for the Jazz Air pilot group, says a 72-hour strike notice is required before pilots can walk off.

More than 1,500 pilots have been working without a contract since last June and have already voted overwhelmingly to strike if necessary.

Shury has said Jazz pilots want improved pensions and allowances, which he said have been frozen since 2004, and modest salary increases.

Jazz pilots earn an average salary of $75,000, but the union has said the salary range is from a low of $34,000 to a high of about $106,000.

Shury had said Jazz pilots have been subject to a bankruptcy-era contract since 2004, and Jazz was negotiating as though it were still in bankruptcy.

Challenging time for TSX

The Toronto stock market is starting the week stuck below where it started the year and analysts say the TSX has some tough obstacles to overcome before it can end 2010 with a positive showing.

And with the main index down 79 points or 0.67 per cent year to date, it's pretty challenging. In the short term, investors should probably brace for more selling pressure.

"With all the good news known, and the bad news not fully comprehended, (stock) prices probably need to come down," said John Johnston, chief strategist, The Harbour Group at RBC Dominion Securities.

He noted that "a lot of people are targeting a level of 950 on the S&P 500 index, which I think works out to about 10,000 on the TSX, which puts it at a 22 per cent decline (from highs registered in April)."

Blue Jays 3 Rockies 10

Jeff Francis finally got a win at Coors Field.

The North Delta, B.C., native pitched seven innings to earn his first home win in two years and the Colorado Rockies beat the Toronto Blue Jays 10-3 yesterday to complete a three-game series sweep.

"It's been a long time," Francis said, "but wins are wins, regardless of where they are. I think it was a good day for everybody. The bats broke out nicely."

Ryan Spilborghs homered twice and Carlos Gonzalez also connected for the Rockies, who picked up their second series sweep of the season. Gonzalez drove in three runs and Clint Barmes and Chris Iannetta had two RBIs apiece.

Jesse Litsch (0-1) lasted 2½ innings in his first start for Toronto since undergoing Tommy John surgery last June. The right-hander gave up seven runs and nine hits.

"He threw a couple of strikes and couldn't put anybody away," Blue Jays manager Cito Gaston said. "What I saw today wasn't what I saw in 2008 before he left. I don't know what to think right now. I hope he is back."

Gasol AWOL as Celtics grab lead in finals

(Celtics lead series 3-2)

Lakers 86 Celtics 92

Pau Gasol finally got the ball with a chance to shoot, and Kevin Garnett sent it back at him.

A few minutes later, the same thing happened.

Gasol was little more than a spectator of the Kobe Bryant show in Game 5 of the NBA finals last night. And if he doesn't become part of the offence again, he might be watching something else: another Boston Celtics celebration at the Los Angeles Lakers' expense.

The forward from Spain either couldn't get himself involved or the Lakers wouldn't involve him. Gasol got only four shots in the first half and finished with 12 points on 5-of-12 shooting in the Celtics' 92-86 victory that gave them a 3-2 lead in the series.

Even worse for the Lakers, he looked passive and pouty, getting overwhelmed by Garnett and often complaining to the officials, just as he did when the Celtics beat the Lakers in the 2008 final.

Bryant was superb in the third quarter, scoring 19 points on a series of long jumpers. But that's not going to beat the Celtics, who are prepared to deal with big nights from Bryant as long as nobody else has them.

Germany's Cacau celebrates after scoring during the World Cup Group D soccer match between Germany and Australia at the stadium in Durban, South Africa, yesterday.

A beautiful victory

GROUP D RESULTS

Germany 4 Australia 0

For one night, the Beautiful Game belonged to Germany.

Known more as a methodical team than a creative one, the Germans scored several lovely goals last night in a 4-0 rout of Australia.

Germany scored twice in each half and Tim Cahill was sent off as the three-time champion surged to the top of Group D at the World Cup.

Lukas Podolski and Miroslav Klose scored in the first 30 minutes as Strong starts

- Germany has not lost an opener in the World Cup since a 2-1 defeat in 1982 against Algeria.

Australia coach Pim Verbeek's defensive tactics backfired, and Thomas Mueller and Cacau added the others against an overwhelmed Australian defence.

"We earned respect for ourselves," Klose said. "It was hugely important to win the first game, but nothing is won yet. We're a young team and we have fun playing."

Cahill was red-carded in the 56th minute for a late challenge on Bastian

Schweinsteiger.

The dominant win, played in front of 62,660 fans at the Moses Mabhida Stadium, came without injured captain Michael Ballack.

"I think the way we set up our attacks is something we've been working on intensively," Germany coach Joachim Loew said. "But we've also worked on how we play off the ball — to move into unused space. We were very good on the ball tonight, and we created beautiful goals."

Australia now has a mountain to climb if it is to move on, especially as it will be without Cahill in its next match, against Ghana on June 19.

Italy coach not making predictions

GROUP F PREVIEW

Italy vs. Paraguay

SOCCER Italy coach Marcello Lippi didn't make any bold predictions before the Azzurri's World Cup victory four years ago, and he wasn't about to change his ways before today's opener with Paraguay.

"I didn't tell you four years ago before Italy-Ghana that we were going to present you with (an) epic month," Lippi said yesterday, referring to the 2-0 win in 2006 that set the tone for the Azzurri's title run. "Great teams are born at big tournaments and grow game by game. Hopefully, we'll start off well tomorrow night and grow from there."

Lippi called the skepticism surrounding his aging squad "normal."

Italy has appeared confused in recent friendlies and Lippi still appears uncertain over his lineup, especially with key midfielder Andrea Pirlo out with an injured left calf.

"I can't deny that certain injuries have prevented me from carrying out a few experiments, but there's no doubt the squad is ready," the coach said.

While Italy is out to discredit its critics, Paraguay is playing in honour of absent striker Salvador Cabanas, who is completing a remarkable recovery from a gunshot wound.

Asamoah Gyan of Ghana scores a penalty yesterday during a World Cup Group D match between Serbia and Ghana at Loftus Versfeld Stadium in Pretoria, South Africa. Ghana won 1-0.

A win for a continent

GROUP D RESULTS

Ghana 1 Serbia 0

The first World Cup in Africa has its first African winner.

Asamoah Gyan scored on an 84th-minute penalty yesterday as Ghana stunned Serbia with a 1-0 victory in Group D. The win set off celebrations not only on the Loftus Versfeld pitch, but across all of Africa.

"That's what you're seeing," Ghana midfielder Stephen Appiah said. "This is the first time the World Cup is held in Africa, and all Africa is united."

After the final whistle, the Ghana players ran across the field in jubilation, some carrying national flags as they received applause from a crowd that pretty much made them the home team.

"Every African is behind us," Gyan said. "I salute all you guys. We win this match for you."

And for the folks back home. Large crowds gathered on major streets in Accra. Cars draped in the national flag swarmed the roads, and some drivers honked their horns while others sang.

"The Black Stars have started what the African countries in the tournament have not been able to do so far by winning a match," 15-year-old viewer Inusah Gariba said. "We have taken the lead and hopefully an African team — preferably Ghana — would come out tops in the final."

That's a long way off. In the opener for both teams, Zdravko Kuzmanovic needlessly handled a cross in the area, and then argued the call and the yellow card he received. Gyan drove the penalty kick high to the left for the only goal.

Previously, Ghana missed a series of headers. John Mensah and Gyan missed the target and Dede Ayew headed against the goalpost.

Sports in brief

TV The World Cup is causing quite a buzz on U.S. television. Saturday's first-round tie by the U.S. and English teams was seen by an estimated 13 million on ESPN. That made it the most-watched telecast involving the U.S. men's team since 1994.

LASER FIFA says it asked stadium security to intervene after a spectator targeted a laser beam at the field during Argentina's World Cup match against Nigeria. The bright green light was aimed at players and Argentina coach Diego Maradona during Saturday's match in Johannesburg. FIFA says it noticed the beam immediately and alerted security staff at Ellis Park. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Slovenia slips past Algeria for first World Cup victory

GROUP C RESULTS

Slovenia 1 Algeria 0

SOCCER Robert Koren scored a late goal to give Slovenia a 1-0 win over Algeria and first place in Group C of the World Cup, ahead of the U.S. and England.

The Slovenian captain struck a long-range shot Algeria goalkeeper Fawzi Chaouchi misjudged and allowed into the net in the 79th minute.

It was the first World Cup victory for Slovenia. The Balkan country lost all three of its matches in the 2002 tournament.

Is a sports team worth it?

A career in sports economics may change your view of the home team

RICHARD WOODBURY
for Metro Canada

With a strong desire to bring an NHL franchise to cities such as Winnipeg, Quebec City and Hamilton, there is often talk of the economic benefits the teams would bring to the communities. It's Brad Humphreys' job to tell people the disheartening news.

"I've got to basically tell people all the time, 'Well, I'm sorry if these people have told you that a new hockey team in your community is going to be really beneficial economically. There's no evidence to support that and it's a money-losing proposition for the local community and only a money-making proposition for the team owner and players,'" says the sports economist who teaches at the University of Alberta.

While many may think that bringing a sports franchise into their city will mean an economic boom, sports economist Brad Humphreys say this is not so. In fact, when he heads to his local ball park, all he can think about is how much money was lost on the facility.

His 10 years of research indicates this is true for all sports.

Sports economics is a relatively new branch of economics, which takes economic principles and uses them to analyze issues in sports, such as the economic impact of hosting large sports events like the Olympics or the economic impact of having a professional sports team.

In Canada, there are only a handful of sports economists and becoming one is not a short process, with a PhD in economics being only a basic requirement.

When he tells people what he does, he says they're intrigued. This is because "sports cuts across all dimensions of society and provides people with a common shared experience," he says.

Not every area of economics has its own section in the newspaper, he adds.

With the recent hosting of the 2010 Winter Olympics in Vancouver, a lot of talk was about the economic benefits it would bring to the city and province. The bad news is the Olympics have poor track records for this.

- 2015 Pan American Games – Toronto

"It's almost certainly not beneficial for a local economy," says Humphreys. "It probably costs a lot more than whatever return you get back out of it."

The Olympics are expensive to host because of the specialized facilities and enormous security costs. Other problems can crop up as well, such as the Athletes Village fiasco in Vancouver.

"That blew up on them," he says, adding that taxpayers are now on the hook for the facility.

Humphreys is no longer the sports fan he once was and this is because of his profession.

"Once I started doing this research on public subsidies for professional sports facilities, it kind of made me less of a sports fan," says the one-time Baltimore Orioles season ticket holder.

Humphreys used to be able to admire a ballpark for its structure and beauty, but "now when I go to a ballpark, all I can think about is, 'Well, how badly did local government get hosed out of money when this facility was built?'"

'I need a vacation' employees plead

With the official start of summer vacation season just days away, workers are planning to take time off and they are feeling more at ease about it.

According to CareerBuilder, more than half (56 per cent) of workers say they are more in need of a vacation in 2010 than they have been in past years. Additionally, 36 per cent say they feel more comfortable taking a vacation in 2010 than in 2009 due to an improving economy.

Many workers have vacations on their radar screens and are planning to be away from the office longer. But, taking a vacation may not mean being completely unhooked from the office. Nearly half (49 per cent) of employers say they expect employees to check in with the office while they are away.

Some vacation tips: Get it on the calendar today: Today companies are operating with smaller staffs and having more than one person out of the office can negatively impact productivity. Be flexible and work with your co-workers to schedule vacation time before booking anything.

Train a co-worker: Before you leave, start recording important information, key contacts and any deadlines that will come up while you are gone and give it to a coworker who you have trained to fill in for you while you are gone. Remember to return the favor to the coworker, when they take vacation.

Schedule a set work time while on vacation: While it's best to leave the office at the office, if you must do work, set limits and boundaries. Don't let activities on vacation be interrupted by work. METRO NEWS SERVICES

Odd Jobs

Diane Peters

Metronews.ca/oddjobs

Michelle Limoges has a great day job. She's worked for the Alberta Research Council for 30 years. She runs special events for the Edmonton-based organization.

Limoges, 59, is planning to retire next year.

Her other gig, meanwhile, will probably start taking up even more of her time.

Originally from Ontario, Limoges moved out west with her first husband in the late 1970s. They got a Doberman together and after the divorce, Limoges took the dog.

She met her second husband at a dog show; he was a policeman who was also a Doberman owner. When her show dog ran out the door one day and ended up at pound, she decided to do some obedience training.

She and the dog enjoyed the challenge. With her next pet, she began doing tracking.

Then, a tornado hit Edmonton in 1987. Observing how important the search and rescue efforts had been during the disaster, Limoges and a group of five other dog owners decided to try it. They got hold of the training standards for a group in British Columbia and began learning.

Every Sunday, they'd meet at a semi-demolished building in downtown Edmonton. They'd hide friends in the rubble and send the dogs to find them.

When the dogs found their targets, they'd get their favourite toys to play

Along with the weekly group session, Limoges and her dog would go out many nights of the week, doing training exercises.

The group began calling itself the Search and Rescue Association of Alberta and became a non-profit organization. As the secretary for the organization, Limoges spends part of her evenings — after she's been out training — doing emails and writing newsletters or guidelines.

The group now has good relationships with local police and the RCMP and get invited out to real searches in the Edmonton area.

The motorcycle diaries

With civil and family cases, Jesse James becoming frequent court figure

Jesse James is getting his day in court. Quite a few of them, actually.

The biker businessman and estranged husband of Sandra Bullock was a fixture in a Los Angeles courtroom last week, where he's involved in dueling lawsuits with an apparel manufacturer and distributor.

James, 41, is scheduled to testify and is expected to attend all the proceedings. The case, with millions of dollars on the line, is far from the only one involving James. It is, however, one that centres on his business rather than his personal life.

He is also embroiled in a custody dispute in neighbouring Orange County with his ex-wife, Janine Lindemulder. James had been expected to attend a hearing in that case this week, but it may be postponed.

There's also James' ongoing divorce from Bullock playing out in Austin, Texas. No proceedings have been scheduled in that case.

Bullock filed for divorce in April after several women claimed they had extramarital affairs with James. He apologized to Bullock, but he and his attorney have maintained the vast majority of the claims against James are untrue.

Jesse James spent two days listening to jury selection, a rare move for a celebrity involved in a civil case.

James is the owner of West Coast Choppers, a custom motorcycle shop in Long Beach, Calif. He also owns several other businesses and has cultivated his bike-making craftsmanship and tough-guy persona into several television shows, most recently Spike TV's Jesse James is a Dead Man.

The clothing dispute being heard in a downtown Los Angeles courtroom centres on a deal James and his companies made with Fortune Fashion Industries. The apparel company sued James in late 2007, claiming he had breached a contract that was worth millions of dollars to produce workwear.

James has denied the allegations and countersued Fortune Fashions, saying the company didn't disclose it didn't have experience creating that type of apparel.

He spent two days last week listening to jury selection, a rare exercise for a celebrity involved in a civil case. Often, stars in-refrain from using the word "cheater" in his opening remarks, even though he intended it only in relations to James' business dealings.

Numerous celebrity reporters and photographers showed up Wednesday when jury selection began, but their numbers had dwindled by opening statements on Friday. The case is expected to last several weeks.

One courthouse where James won't be showing up anytime soon is the criminal one. A paparazzo accused James of vandalizing his car after cheating allegations surfaced, but prosecutors rejected filing charges.

Final Twilight chapter split into 2 movies

MOVIES Twilight fans will have twice as much to sink their teeth into for the saga's final chapter, with Breaking Dawn to be released as two movies.

Summit Entertainment, which is releasing the wildly popular vampire franchise based on Stephenie Meyer's books, said part one would come out Nov. 18, 2011. The script is being written now, with stars Kristen Stewart, Robert Pattinson and Taylor Lautner returning. Production is set to begin this fall.

Bill Condon, who won an Oscar for the screenplay for Gods and Monsters, will direct both movies. Condon also directed Dreamgirls and Kinsey and produced the 2009 Academy Awards ceremony with Hugh Jackman as host.

Mraz working to help end slavery in Ghana

PEOPLE While Shakira, the Black Eyed Peas and other top musicians are in Africa to help kick off the World Cup, singer Jason Mraz was on the continent for another reason: to help free slaves.

The 31-year-old Grammy winner was in Ghana this week with Free the Slaves, a non-profit organization whose mission is to "end slavery worldwide."

Mraz spent five days in the country, travelling with James Kofi Annan, a former child slave who used to work on fishing boats and had been enslaved for seven years.

Annan founded Challenging Heights, a school in Winneba where many of its students are former slaves. The children performed songs for Mraz.

The singer also travelled to a rescue shelter for slaves in the town of Atebubu and to Lake Volta, where many child slaves are working, said Peggy Callahan, the organization's co-founder and executive producer.

Callahan says she met Mraz through a mutual friend and she suggested he go to Ghana with her.

"The movement to end slavery really needs more voices, but they really need to be authentic voices, people who really do care about an issue," she said. "And Jason's one of those people, and he's willing to take the time to find out."

Mraz is the first celebrity to participate on the ground with the organization.

The pop singer is also busy working on the follow-up to his platinum-selling CD, 2008's We Sing. We Dance. We Steal Things. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Wainwright's Prima Donna takes stage

LUMINATO Singer Rufus Wainwright raises the curtain on his opera, Prima Donna, at the Elgin Theatre tonight as part of Luminato, Toronto Festival of Music, Arts and Creativity. The French-language opera is about a diva confronting her demons.

Wainwright It will also be performed on Wednesday, Friday and Saturday nights.

Here is a look at some of the other events taking place at the festival today:

- Bollywood comes to Yonge-Dundas Square at 7 p.m. with Light On Your Feet, a free celebration of Bollywood music featuring performers from DIYAS Arts & Entertainment and the Tarana Dance Centre.

- Writer Roddy Doyle, winner of the 1993 Man Booker Prize for Paddy Clarke Ha Ha Ha, hosts an intimate evening of literature at the St. Lawrence Centre for the Performing Arts' Jane Mallet Theatre at 8 p.m.

- Filmmaker Atom Egoyan curates Solar Breath (Northern Carylids) and Light Air, a tribute to the late David Peacock, co-founder of Luminato. The exhibit is up all week at Brookfield Place, 181 Bay St.

- Fashion designer Mark Fast has created a knit sculpture, The Ascension of Beauty, that descends from its surroundings at Brookfield Place, 181 Bay St.

Bloomsday fans, hold off on ordering that Guinness round: Wednesday may be a cause for protest rather than celebration, especially if you've been trying to download that iPad webcomic adaptation of James Joyce's Ulysses.

The day honours the lewd — yet transcendental — journey of fictional Dubliner Leopold Bloom, with readings and pub crawls. But commemorations are possibly marred by the censorship of the Irish literary classic in Apple's App Store.

Thanks to Steve Jobs' strict no-nudity clause, Rob Berry and Josh Levitas' Ulysses Seen webcomic has been banned from iPhones and iPads, specifically for its cartoon nudity.

Of course, App Store censorship isn't an isolated incident. Earlier this year, Pulitzer Prize-winning political cartoonist Mark Fiore saw his NewsToons iPhone app be rejected by Apple, since its satirization of "public figures" violated the company's iPhone Developer Program License Agreement.

Yet it doesn't stop there. The no-nipples edict has affected edgy magazines like Vice and Dazed & Confused, the latter reportedly dub-

Steve Jobs unveils the iPhone4. The App Store currently has a strict no-nudity clause for its content.

Reading the mouseprint

- So what exactly is the legalese that supports Apple's censorship? Item 3.3.17 of the iPhone Developer Program License Agreement, which states that it's Apple's "reasonable judgement" to reject apps that are "considered obscene, pornographic, or defamatory" for your iPhone, iPad or iPod Touch. Other unsettling rules? Apple can kill your app any time, and only owes developers using its software development kit no more than $50 in damages.

bing their magazine's iPad version the "Iran edition," as reported by Anna Leach of British tech blog ShinyShiny.

There are those that argue Apple's right to such censorship.

Ever since Steve Jobs emailed Gawker's Ryan Tate about his "Freedom of porn" App Store vision, many have countered that Apple has every right to its closed content garden, likening it to a mall or even a Wal-Mart.

But this goes against Jobs' promise to media companies that the iPad would make paywalls and e-magazines a solution to print's current toil.

Now that Apple is trying to cut out digital publishing favourite Adobe, as well as ensure a cut in mobile advertising with their iAd platform, print is now contending with a compromised future: no final say on their product (especially if it's sold in Apple's App Store).

Arcade Fire takes fans on trip to The Suburbs

Arcade Fire completed a duo of hastily organized Toronto shows on Saturday night, granting captivated crowds an early glimpse at material from their long-awaited third album.

In front of a sold-out crowd at the Danforth Music Hall, the indie-rockers burned through an incendiary 90-minute set that integrated new material with favourites from the Montrealers' first two records.

Frontman Win Butler, showcasing an oblique new hairstyle, rarely addressed a crowd who had lined up earlier in the afternoon to secure tickets for the event.

"Thank you very much for coming," he said to cheers at the beginning of the show before launching into a song.

But the lack of banter didn't seem to bother the appreciative audience, who shouted the band's anthemic choruses back to them and seemed eager to engage with their new material.

Arcade Fire frontman Win Butler belts out a song at the Danforth Music Hall Saturday.

It might have helped that much of what Arcade Fire played from The Suburbs, due out Aug. 3, carried an immediacy that was once uncommon for the band.

From the punk rush of Month of May to the foreboding thump of Rococo, Arcade Fire debuted a set that hewed closer to traditional pop tunes than the swerving epics that populated their previous two records.

The buoyant Ready to Start incited an audience clapping, while the record's swaggering title track — already available streaming online — was greeted with cheers by an obviously familiar audience.

Where Butler's emotive voice once careened wildly through the band's frequent crescendos, he sounds slightly more assured and subdued on the band's new tracks.

Of course, they're still getting comfortable with performing the new songs, with these ramshackle gigs providing an opportunity to work out any remaining kinks. As a result, they were most animated when marching through the various fist-pumping anthems from their 2004 debut Funeral, with raucous takes on Wake Up (which was aided by a thunderous fan singalong) and Neighborhood #3 (Power Out).

BASEketball

"Base" is right. Trey Parker and Matt Stone, who have been bringing the laughs for more than a decade with the raunchy animated series "South Park," struck out with this live-action 1998 comedy. They play two buddies who invent a new sport — a combination of baseball and basketball — that becomes a national sensation. The plot is a yawner, the gross-out gags are, well, gross, and the whole thing just isn't up to Matt and Trey's usual standards. 10:45 PM on PIX

Two and a Half Men

A bar fight lands Alan — yes, Alan — in jail, but typically, that's not the main thing Charlie is fretting about. He's worried that Chelsea is interested in the lawyer (guest star Stephen Eckholdt) who takes Alan's case in "Crude and Uncalled For." 9 PM on CTV CBS

CSI: Miami

Horatio and his team are sharply divided over the baffling case of a man who was chopped in half. Elsewhere, Natalia's injury puts her and Ryan in a very bad spot in "Die by the Sword." 10:01 PM on CTV CBS

Crawford officially charged

Chace Crawford was officially charged with possession of marijuana, a misdemeanor, after his arrest in a Texas parking lot last week, according to TMZ. If convicted, the Gossip Girl could face up to six months in jail. METRO WORLD NEWS

Celebrity Buzz*Jones' rough, yet sober ride*PERHAPS SHE SHOULD CONSIDER ANOTHER MEANS OF TRANSPORTATION FOR NOW ON?

Mad Men star January Jones had a rough ride home recently, reportedly striking several parked cars with her own car before stopping and leaving on foot, according to TMZ. Witnesses also claim Food Network star Bobby Flay, whom Jones had met earlier that evening, arrived on the scene and advised her to leave.

According to the LAPD, Jones was being pursued by paparazzi and was not intoxicated. "She wasn't under the influence of anything. No one got hurt. There is no investigation," a police spokesperson says.

Fox admits trying to throw off the press

AN ACTOR WHO LIES TO THE MEDIA, NOW THAT'S AN ANOMALY! Megan Fox admits her previous outlandish statements to the press were all an attempt to hide her personal life.

"In the past, I've been reluctant to share any bits of truth about myself or to really let people in on my reality," Fox tells Zach Galifianakis in the latest issue of Interview magazine. "So I have said some things to throw people off the scent of what's really going on in my life. So I have sort of aided the media in printing these misconceptions, which I regret."

The actress is also coming to terms with the amount of media attention she receives. "I don't really resent being on the red carpet as much as I do having to deal with the paparazzi," she says. "The photographers on the red carpet, that's their job."

Pattinson gaining buzz for new film

HE MAY BE MORE THAN JUST A PRETTY VAMPIRE FACE Robert Pattinson may finally getting attention as an actor for something other than the Twilight franchise, as early Oscar buzz on his performance in Water for Elephants is already growing.

"It wouldn't surprise me at all if he were to receive an Oscar nod for this role," a source close to the film tells Hollywood Life. Even his Oscar-winning co-star, Christoph Waltz, is impressed.

"It's in my house," Waltz says of his own Oscar. "But the way things are looking, I might have to hand it off to Rob next year."

Woods spotted with blond twice

FUELING THE FIRE? Tiger Woods turned heads recently when he hit the golf course with a gorgeous blond in his golf cart — while wife Elin Nordegren is on the other side of the world in China.

"They were chatting and obviously very comfortable with each other," a source tells Radar Online about the mysterious woman. "She was laughing at everything he said and he looked completely relaxed in a way that he hasn't looked in a long time."

It was the second time Woods was spotted with the same woman.

Metro Recipe of the Day

Italian Rice and Tuna Salad

INGREDIENTS:

1 1/2 cups cold water
1/2 tsp black pepper
1/2 cup uncooked long-grain white rice
1 large tomato, seeded and chopped
1 jar marinated artichoke hearts, drained and quartered
1/2 cup chopped green pepper
1/2 cup chopped red onion
1/4 cup sliced pitted black olives
1 tbsp drained capers, rinsed
1/3 cup lemon juice
1/4 cup water
3 tbsp olive or vegetable oil
1 can water-packed, chunk light tuna, rinsed, drained, and flaked
3 anchovies, drained, rinsed, and chopped

METHOD:

1. In medium pot, bring water and black pepper to boil. Stir in rice. Lower heat and simmer, covered, 20 minutes or until rice is tender. Drain and cool rice slightly. Fluff with fork.

2. In large bowl, combine warm rice, tomato, artichoke hearts, green pepper, onion, olives and capers. Pour lemon juice, water and oil over rice mixture. Fold in tuna and anchovies. Toss lightly. Cover; refrigerate 4 hours.

3. To serve, spoon salad onto plates lined with curly endive.
